Acknowledgments

This volume is a compilation of materials on torture by law-enforcement personnel in the State of Karnataka for 2007. As torture is an alarmingly widespread phenomenon, the pages that follow represent the work of a vast array of devoted activists, professionals, and volunteers. We are indebted to these individuals for their time and expertise. We would like to acknowledge with appreciation and to place on record the names of all those who have contributed in their particular capacities.

Thanks must go first to the State Team for Karnataka. Led by State Director Mr. Mathew Philip, this group of passionate human rights defenders is responsible for the staggering quantity of raw data in the pages that follow. State Program Coordinator Mr. Monahar and State Program Associate Mr. Prakash Kariyappa provided valuable oversight and guidance. Legal interventions in Karnataka benefited from the steady hands of Mr. Siji Malayil, State Law Officer, and Ms. Eunice Mercy, State Legal Associate. None of the Project's successes in Karnataka would have been possible without the commitment and considerable work of the District Human Rights Monitors, namely Mr. Padmanabha, Mr. Raju, Mr. Susai Raj Babu, Mr. Vasanth, Ms. Honnamma, and Mr. Basappa Kallarepura.

Working with this raw data, a devoted team of volunteers engaged themselves in the massive task of editing and processing literally hundreds of case reports. Leading this group was Mr. Jason Hoffman, a volunteer at People's Watch from the American Jewish World Service. His team comprised, of Mr. Dorian Needham (McGill University, Montreal, Canada), Mr. Neville Dastoor (Center for Human Rights and Global Justice Fellow, New York City, USA), Ms. Rebecca Faithfull (Goldsmith University, London, United Kingdom), Mytili Bala (Yale Law School, Connecticut, USA), Archana Sharma (Law Researcher), Mr. Subhradipta Sarkar (Law Researcher), Ms. Anita Rosalind (Translator), Ms. Meena (Translator) and Mr. Charles Fisher.

However, even polished reports are not enough. Coordinating their receipt, transmission, and smooth passage was the ever-calm Ms. Anitha Princy (Administrative Assistant, NPPTI). Ensuring their standardised formatting and guiding their conversion into electronic media was a dedicated trio at the Computer Unit, led by Mr. Anand Kumar and also including Mr. Samuel and Ms. Sathya.

Finally, acknowledgement must be made of the torture victims themselves. Some survived to recount their experiences to members of the State Team; others did not. Regardless, they and their families have shown remarkable courage in telling their stories. Fighting intimidation, fear, and trauma, they have rejected a culture of impunity and silence by raising their voices aloud. The pages that follow bear witness to their suffering and their strength.

People's Watch—An Overview

People's Watch ("PW") is a human rights organisation that has been actively engaging itself in the protection and promotion of human rights and fundamental freedoms in Rajasthan since 1995. After eleven years of work, PW has expanded its concerns across India.

Vision

A society free from human rights violations and discrimination to be built through cultivating a human rights culture and building a participatory democracy.

Mission

- Protection of human rights through monitoring human rights violations, intervention and building solidarity with people's struggle for human rights.
- Promoting human rights culture through education and conscientising the larger community.

Brief History and Background

In 1993, Mr. Henri Tiphagne, Executive Director of PW and a passionate human rights advocate since 1977, became determined to professionalise human rights responses in the state of Rajasthan in India. He and like-minded people such as Dr. Devasahayam, the present Director of the Institute of Human Rights Education, and Fr. Diamond Raj, a Catholic Priest with the Archdiocese of Madurai, founded PW in December 1995 along with a team of Advisory Board members. In its nascent stage, the organisation was entirely committed to monitoring the state to improve accountability for human rights violations. Over time, the organisation expanded into the fields of legal intervention, rehabilitation, and campaigning. PW now boasts a legal team committed to intervening on behalf of torture victims and a Rehabilitation Centre for victims of domestic violence and torture, where victims receive housing and support. Its Campaign Unit works to improve human rights awareness throughout the community and to engage other organisations in the struggle. It is particularly engaged in building what is popularly known as the 'Citizens for Human Rights Movement.' Its Human Rights Education program has successfully introduced the concept of human rights into school curricula in over fourteen states across the country. The program is based on the strongly held belief that the value of rights can be firmly established only when instilled in the minds of children as a social virtue, as a value to be safeguarded and protected as something stable and indestructible.

SICHREM – An Overview

Founded in 1995, South India Cell for Human Rights Education and Monitoring (SICHREM) is a human rights organization that aims to make human rights a household concept. Through human rights education, monitoring, and mobilising civil society, SICHREM endeavours to build a culture of human rights. SICHREM's programming consciously takes a pro-poor, gender-sensitive, and pro-child stance to protect individual and collective rights to dignity.

Vision

A fearless society where the rights of the last and the least are respected without any bias, where human rights extend to all realms of society to embrace social, cultural, economic, civil, and political rights

Mission

- Monitoring and documentation of human rights violations
- Promoting human rights culture through education programs in schools and colleges
- Providing free legal assistance and advocacy on human rights issues
- Campaigning for human rights reform by lobbying to repeal laws antithetical to human rights

Brief History and Background

SICHREM was founded in 1995, coinciding with the United Nations' declared "Decade for Human Rights Education (1995-2004)". Since its inception, SICHREM has launched human rights education programs and innovative projects and activities to protect the dignity and rights of marginalized communities.

SICHREM's main focus lies in conducting human rights education programs. Since 2000, SICHREM has successfully implemented human rights education in 15 colleges and it initiated a training program in human rights education for college and university teachers and now in 123 schools across Karnataka and in 55 schools in Kerala in partnership with the Institute of Human Rights Education (IHRE). SICHREM is also involved in documenting human rights violations across Karnataka. Their documentation helps build reports to assist SICHREM's advocacy efforts.

In conjunction with other organisations, SICHREM set up mobile legal clinics to provide direct legal services in impoverished neighbourhoods. A team of three advocates visits poor communities and addresses their legal questions. In addition, SICHREM created a Human Rights Helpline for people to call with grievances to obtain legal advice.

SICHREM is the programme unit of MANASA Centre for Development and Social Action, a non-governmental organization registered in 1995 in Bangalore, India. The name MANASA is the abbreviation of a statement in Kannada, meaning, "Towards a Just and Humane Society." MANASA is committed to promoting and defending human rights, affirming gender justice, asserting the validity of plural cultures and secular ethos within society.

The National Project on Preventing Torture in India

People's Watch, in league with the Friedrich Naumann Stiftung, began the National Project on Preventing Torture in India (NPPTI) in January 2006 with a grant from the European Union under the EIDHR. The primary aim of the action is to initiate and to model a national campaign for the prevention of torture in India, with a deliberate focus on torture practices routinely employed by police. The project focuses especially upon safeguarding groups on the margins of Indian society, such as Dalit, tribal groups, minorities, women and children.

The project consists of two major stages:

1. Formation of nine State-wide networks to monitor instances of torture and to intervene on behalf of victims.
2. A national campaign against torture that uses monitoring data to develop public awareness, to train professionals, to improve institutional responses to abuse, and to lobby for India's ratification of the United Nations Convention Against Torture (CAT) and its Optional Protocols.

The Project's design reflects priorities set by the European Commission's EIDHR Call for Proposals—specifically, research on torture practices, legal support for victims, awareness-raising, and legislative lobbying.

In the years 2006 and 2007, the Project has undertaken the following in the State of Karnataka:

	2006	2007
Fact-Findings	: 24	404
Legal Interventions	: 25	419
Training Programmes	: 10	10

The overall goal of the Project is the prevention and reduction of torture in India, where police abuses remain an entrenched and often routine law enforcement strategy despite India's status as the world's largest democracy. The Project confronts frequent police practices that include assault and physical abuse, custodial death, custodial rape, threats and psychological humiliation, and deprivation of food, water, sleep, and medical attention.

The primary goals of the Project are as follows:

- Protecting potential victims of torture, particularly those belonging to vulnerable and marginalised communities.
- Highlighting individual cases of torture as they occur
- Improving institutional responses to instances of torture by demanding state accountability
- Advancing an ethic of responsibility and restraint among law-enforcement officers
- Educating and enlisting professional groups such as lawyers, social activists, doctors, psychiatrists, journalists, and teachers in the campaign to prevent and to eliminate torture
- Raising public awareness of torture as an unlawful and widespread abuse of police powers
- Promoting favourable policy outcomes in the form of new domestic anti-torture legislation and commitments to existing international treaties

Ultimately, one of the most enduring effects of the Project will be the model that it sets for addressing issues of torture nationally. Recognising that there are insufficient resources to stanch the practice of torture nationally, PW has sought to create an example for preventing torture that can be duplicated. A key aspect of this approach is the “model taluk,” in which monitoring and campaigning efforts will be intensely focussed in one “taluk” (an administrative subdivision of a district) in each State, with the goal of working towards the elimination of torture practices entirely. This model will create a paradigm for the prevention and elimination of torture on a much larger scale.

Why This Report?

This report falls under the “Campaign Against Torture” segment of the NPPTI. It seeks to raise awareness of torture and ultimately to influence policies relating to the misuse of official power. The basic thrust of the report is to reveal the context in which PW felt compelled to undertake the NPPTI. This contextual picture is painted by examining three major categories:

1. Data on actual occurrences of torture and police misbehaviour from 2000-2006, collected through state-level organisations and secondary source research
2. An analysis of trends that emerge from the data, with special attention to the effects of torture on marginalised groups such as Dalits and women
3. Institutional responses at the state level

Ultimately, the research reveals a sad scene, in which rhetoric is abundant and action scarce. Indeed, despite its refusal to ratify the CAT or expressly to criminalise torture, India continuously pays lip service to the prevention of torture through its Parliament, Courts, and Commissions. Yet the data reveal an appalling prevalence of police misconduct, including the use of torture as a common interrogation method. Institutional responses are anaemic, in terms of both documentation and concrete preventive actions.

Aside from raising awareness, then, this report aims to combat the complacency and denial that define the Indian Government’s response to such blatant human rights transgressions. It provides irrefutable proof that invites Indian policymakers to acknowledge the extent of torture practices in the country and to take a participatory role in ensuring that basic human rights are guaranteed to all of India’s citizens. By demanding a dialogue on the issue, PW hopes to end the silence that continues to expose hundreds of thousands of Indians to the practice of torture every year.

Special Report : The JSTF Cases

JSTF CASES: SEEKING JUSTICE FOR THE VICTIMS OF THE KARNATAKA / TAMIL NADU JOINT SPECIAL TASK FORCE, 1993-2004

Background

In 1990, the Governments of Karnataka and Tamil Nadu separately established police task forces to capture Veerappan, a forest brigand and smuggler operating in the border region between the two States. Three years later, following a series of bombings and a murderous attack by Veerappan's gang, the States pooled their resources and created a 2,000-officer strong Joint Special Task Force ("JSTF") with the same mandate – apprehending Veerappan – and with de facto limitless powers to enforce it.

Many of the villagers living in and around the border region, threatened by Veerappan's gang, were reluctant to cooperate with the police. Thus, between 1993 and 1996, JSTF personnel adopted a strategy of terrorising and intimidating these villagers to extract information and to punish persons considered to be Veerappan's sympathisers. The resultant human-rights abuses included fabricated encounters, disappearances, custodial rapes and deaths, torture by electric shocks, unlawful imprisonment and wilful deprivation of food and water – leaving many villagers physically and mentally traumatised.

The press highlighted these atrocities and abuses, and civil society began to push for a state response. However, the National Human Rights Commission ("NHRC") did nothing, despite its mandate for suo moto action and its role under s. 12(a) of the Protection of Human Rights Act, 1993.

In March 1999, after further lobbying by individuals and rights groups, the NHRC sent its Special Rapporteur, Shri Chaman Lal, to visit Mysore Central Jail, where many villagers had been detained under false or inflated charges filed by JSTF personnel. These charges – most under the Terrorism and Disruptive Activities (Prevention) Act ("TADA") – saw hundreds of persons imprisoned, some for several years with neither parole nor a trial date.

At the same time, groups sympathetic to the victims of JSTF abuses formed the Campaign for the Relief and Rehabilitation of TADA Detenues (the “Campaign”). Campaign members included:

1. the Society for Community Organisation Trust (SOCO Trust);
2. the Tribal Association of Tamil Nadu;
3. the People’s Union for Civil Liberties (PUCL) of Karnataka and Tamil Nadu;
4. the South Indian Cell for Human Rights Education and Monitoring (SICHREM);
5. the Human Rights Cell of the Indian Social Institute; and
6. People’s Watch.

Individuals from these organisations visited villages in the border regions of Karnataka and Tamil Nadu, and prepared affidavits on behalf of many who had been subjected to JSTF atrocities. The Campaign presented these affidavits to the NHRC, and – when the NHRC did not respond – to the Tamil Nadu State Human Rights Commission. Meanwhile, police officials intimidated and threatened Campaign members, and the JSTF categorically denied all allegations of abuse.

In June 1999, the NHRC finally formed a panel of enquiry, chaired by Justice A. Sadashiva, to investigate alleged human-rights violations. After a lethargic start and debates over its jurisdiction and procedures, the Sadashiva Commission began its work. In a series of sittings spanning four years, the Commission deposed 192 victims (out of a then-estimated 1000) and 28 JSTF officers, as well as doctors, jail authorities, and members of human-rights organisations. Thus, the horrifying extent of torture by JSTF personnel was revealed.

Meanwhile, following negotiations with Veerappan, the States of Karnataka and Tamil Nadu publicly promised on 25 August 2000 to pay Rs. 5 crore each as interim compensation to the victims of JSTF human-rights violations.

The Sadashiva Commission submitted its Report to the NHRC on 2 December 2003. The Commission acknowledged that torture had been perpetrated, but declined to identify individual perpetrators. For twenty-two months, the NHRC did not respond.

On 18 October 2004, the JSTF claimed to have located and killed Veerappan; the exact circumstances of the alleged final encounter with Veerappan remain unclear. The State Governments of Karnataka and Tamil Nadu announced rewards and promotions for the JSTF personnel involved, despite the overwhelming number of alleged human-rights violations pending against these same officers.

Eventually taking action, the NHRC repeatedly asked the State Governments to respond to the Sadashiva Commission Report, but did little to enforce its requests. The two Governments did not react, despite lobbying by the Campaign, by other civil society actors, and by the victims themselves.

Finally, on 15 January 2007, the NHRC ordered the disbursement of Rs. 2 crore 80 lakh to those 89 victims whose tales of torture were accepted by the Sadashiva Commission as “credible.” The State Government of Karnataka has yet to respond fully; interested parties continue to press for full compliance.

Even where victims have received compensation, it has often been awarded at police stations, or in the presence of the very JSTF officers who perpetrated the human-rights abuses themselves. Some victims refused to accept the compensation in such circumstances. There have also been allegations that some JSTF officers have tried to appropriate victims’ compensation money.

Neither the State Government of Karnataka nor that of Tamil Nadu has made arrangements to hear from those hundreds of victims whose testimony was not collected by the Sadashiva Commission. Meanwhile, although the government withdrew all TADA charges, many villagers accused of having helped Veerappan still stand charged with offences under the Indian Penal Code, the Arms Act, and the Explosives Act, and have been denied procedural justice.

The physical and mental echoes of JSTF abuses resound in the villages where Veerappan was sought. The crusade against Veerappan cost Rs. 150 crore and lasted eleven years – but the human cost is significantly higher and will endure much longer.

The twelve accounts of torture that follow are a representative selection from amongst the hundreds amassed by the Campaign through fact-finding missions to the villages in which the JSTF operated. Some, including members of the Sadashiva Commission itself, have questioned the reliability of such testimony – but the stories speak for themselves.
